

Winter Workshop Series

Series #1 – January 30/31

Workshop	Description
Archaeology: Finding the Missing Pieces	Archaeology is about studying human cultures. Archaeologists not only "read" human stories through the examination of objects and landscapes of the past, but they must also be keen observant of the evidence around them. But what happens when a page of that human story is missing? Or when a piece is missing from the human puzzle. Join this workshop to find out how to think like an archaeologist! Instructor: Cherie Haury-Artz
Creative Writing & Art: Telling Your Stories	Join us for this engaging writing workshop (Or rather, might it be engrossing, or enthralling, or electrifying!!). Discuss different modes of creative writing and creative processes. Engage with creative writing prompts and art prompts in order to tell your stories. Share your work and provide feedback to other workshop participants in a safe, non-judgemental space. Instructor: Laura Johnson
Diving Into Genetics	Learn the basics of Genetics and gain a great foundation in this interesting field of Biology. We will dive into DNA, chromosomes, genes, traits and more! Hold on tight, we have a lot to learn! Instructor: Kaitlin Kuehner
Full Impact: Blending Word & Image	A picture tell a thousand words. In this workshop students will integrate words with photographs to create an efficient, articulate, and passionate document, which not only responds to an image, but which actively tells a series of stories. Students may utilize photographs of their own taking, as well respond to provided perspective photographs. Everyone will have the opportunity to share their writings and images with other workshop participants. Instructor: Robert Campagna
The History of Music as Protest in America	Music has the power to motivate, inspire, unite, and heal people. Because of this power, music has been a tool used in protest against social, cultural, military, and political injustice throughout our nation's history. Dive into the history of protest music and discover the power of music as a force for change! Instructor: Jennifer Fishwild
Intro to German Language & Culture	Guten Tag! Good day! This workshop is an introduction to the spoken and written German language and culture. We will focus on introductory phrases and vocabulary giving students hands-on experience with useful language phrases. Students will also gain an appreciation and understanding of a different culture. This workshop is taught mostly in German through examples, repetition, and actual conversational situations. Instructor: Milaena Reade
Real vs. Fake Myths: Exploring Rick Riordan's World of Mythology	Let's explore the myths that Rick Riordan writes about in his novels and compare them to the classical myths that we know and love. Come to this workshop with a mythological character that you want to learn more about! Instructor: Erin Hoffman
The Virtual Artist	Art doesn't need a place. It just needs your inspiration! Create virtual drawings using simple tools and a little imagination. From character building to landscapes, learn the basics of drawing on a computer. Instructor: Amanda Knox

Winter Workshop Series

Series #2 – February 9/11

Workshop	Description
Creative Writing & Art: Telling Your Stories	Join us for this engaging writing workshop (Or rather, might it be engrossing, or enthralling, or electrifying!!). Discuss different modes of creative writing and creative processes. Engage with creative writing prompts and art prompts in order to tell your stories. Share your work and provide feedback to other workshop participants in a safe, non-judgemental space. Instructor: Laura Johnson
Diving Into Genetics	Learn the basics of Genetics and gain a great foundation in this interesting field of Biology. We will dive into DNA, chromosomes, genes, traits and more! Hold on tight, we have a lot to learn! Instructor: Kaitlin Kuehner
Full Impact: Blending Word & Image	A picture tell a thousand words. In this workshop students will integrate words with photographs to create an efficient, articulate, and passionate document, which not only responds to an image, but which actively tells a series of stories. Students may utilize photographs of their own taking, as well respond to provided perspective photographs. Everyone will have the opportunity to share their writings and images with other workshop participants. Instructor: Robert Campagna
The History of Music as Protest in America	Music has the power to motivate, inspire, unite, and heal people. Because of this power, music has been a tool used in protest against social, cultural, military, and political injustice throughout our nation's history. Dive into the history of protest music and discover the power of music as a force for change! Instructor: Jennifer Fishwild
The Virtual Artist	Art doesn't need a place. It just needs your inspiration! Create virtual drawings using simple tools and a little imagination. From character building to landscapes, learn the basics of drawing on a computer. Instructor: Amanda Knox

Series #3 – February 13/14

Workshop	Description
Archaeology: Finding the Missing Pieces	Archaeology is about studying human cultures. Archaeologists not only "read" human stories through the examination of objects and landscapes of the past, but they must also be keening observant of the evidence around them. But what happens when a page of that human story is missing? Or when a piece is missing from the human puzzle. Join this workshop to find out how to think like an archaeologist! Instructor: Cherie Haury-Artz
Creative Writing & Art: Telling Your Stories	Join us for this engaging writing workshop (Or rather, might it be engrossing, or enthralling, or electrifying!!). Discuss different modes of creative writing and creative processes. Engage with creative writing prompts and art prompts in order to tell your stories. Share your work and provide feedback to other workshop participants in a safe, non-judgemental space. Instructor: Laura Johnson
Diving Into Genetics	Learn the basics of Genetics and gain a great foundation in this interesting field of Biology. We will dive into DNA, chromosomes, genes, traits and more! Hold on tight, we have a lot to learn! Instructor: Kaitlin Kuehner

Winter Workshop Series

Workshop	Description
The History of Music as Protest in America	Music has the power to motivate, inspire, unite, and heal people. Because of this power, music has been a tool used in protest against social, cultural, military, and political injustice throughout our nation's history. Dive into the history of protest music and discover the power of music as a force for change! Instructor: Jennifer Fishwild
Real vs. Fake Myths: Exploring Rick Riordan's World of Mythology	Let's explore the myths that Rick Riordan writes about in his novels and compare them to the classical myths that we know and love. Come to this workshop with a mythological character that you want to learn more about! Instructor: Erin Hoffman
The Virtual Artist	Art doesn't need a place. It just needs your inspiration! Create virtual drawings using simple tools and a little imagination. From character building to landscapes, learn the basics of drawing on a computer. Instructor: Amanda Knox

Grant Wood AEA extends equal opportunities in its employment practices, educational programs and services, and does not discriminate on the basis of color, gender, race, national origin, religion, creed, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status, disability, veteran status or as otherwise prohibited by law. If you believe you or your child have been discriminated against or treated unjustly, please contact the Agency's Equity Coordinator, Maria Cashman, at 319-399-6847 or 1-800-332-8488, Grant Wood AEA, 4401 Sixth St SW, Cedar Rapids, IA 52404.